The two-day national conference of Indian Association Physiotherapists began on Saturday in which physiotherapists discussed about new developments for treatment and machines.

The conference was inaugurated by health minister Tulsi Silawat, sports minister Jitu Patwari, vice chancellor of Madhya Pradesh Medical Science University Dr RS Sharma and vice chancellor of Devi Ahilya Vishwavidyalaya Dr Narendra Dhakad. Organising secretary Dr

Anand Misra said, "More than 1000 specialists from across the globe are participating in the conference. Experts from Italy, the US are among participants who will share their experience and knowledge with Indian counterparts."

Misra said it was first conference, which focused on differences in corporate and physiotherapy.

"We aimed at working as a bridge between specialists and companies for patients' welfare. It will help doctors and companies to work in sync and develop techniques to provide every possible treatment," Misra said.

Sessions of physiotherapy on sports injury, ligaments, knee and joint replacement and others took place during the conference on first day.
