Devi Anilya Vishwavidyalaya (DAVV), which secured place in 101 and 150 rank-band of universities in national rankings last year, is confident of improving its ranking in 2019. The rankings are approved by human resource development ministry.

With a dream to figure among top 100 varsities in the country, the DAVV has registered for national rankings 2019, which is released by National Institutional Ranking Framework (NIRF).

"September 18 is the last date to register online for national rankings. We have already registered for the rankings and will soon upload on NIRF website data required for assessment of our standards," said Pratosh Bansal, DAVV's nodal officer for NIRE.

He said university is confident of getting a better ranking this time.

"Last time, we secured place in 101-150 rank-band. In last one year, we have done exceptionally well in areas including campus placements of students, enhancing women student ratio, research, publication, utilisation of funds etc. Hence, we are expecting a better ranking this time," Bansal added.

The expectations of DAVV are fuelled by advanced teaching and research going on in its school of studies. "We have been given seven special assistance programmes from University Grants Commission, two excellence centres from state government and our excellence in research and advanced teaching, we are hopeful of getting high rating from NIRF this time," Bansal said.

This is the fourth year for the rankings.

The DAVV did not participate in the first national rankings released in 2015. In 2016, it secured place in the rank-band of 101-150 varsities. In 2017, its position slipped to 151-200 but it climbed back to rank-band of 101-150 in 2018.

NIRF was launched by HRD ministry in 2015. The main objective of launching NIRF was to have indigenous ranking for institutions across the country. The institution is assessed on five broad parameters like teaching and learning resources, research and professional practices, graduation outcome, outreach and inclusivity and perception.
